CHALLENGES WE FACE

RISING COSTS

Rising costs have become a pressing concern due to poor economic and monetary policies, which have led to inflation and heightened expenses for essentials. People often find themselves grappling with the burden of a higher cost of living, as prices for goods and services continue to surge. Addressing these challenges requires local action to stabilize the economy and alleviate financial strain on people.

ENVIRONMENTAL THREATS

The planet is facing growing ecological threats as human activities continue to degrade ecosystems and contribute to pollution. Deforestation and habitat destruction endanger biodiversity and threaten the delicate balance of our natural world. Urgent action is needed to mitigate these threats and preserve the environment for future generations.
